BENEFITS

- Long-term Duration Ley

Horses and ponies are choosy grazers. Offer them a paddock with a good covering of grass and for no apparent reason they'll still pick and choose between different areas.

It's therefore important to ensure that any area grazing horses should be seeded with a high seeding rate which includes plenty of 'bottom' grasses to produce a dense sward capable of withstanding intense wear.

Varieties chosen are high in fibre and low in sugar content as well as being hardwearing and persistent, special care has been taken to reduce the possibility of laminitis.

- Sowing rate: 14kg per acre
- Pack size: 14kg

DESCRIPTION

VERY FEW feed or seed companies now provide the expertise required to correctly formulate equine grass mixtures. More often than not a mixture best suited to silage for cattle is supplied. While what horse "folk" are looking for is a sward that is tidy, hardwearing and relatively easy to manage. What the horse is looking for is a short, dense sward that is palatable and will provide grazing for as many months of the year as possible.

Horse Paddock Care – Laminitis

Laminitis is one of the most common causes of lameness and disability of your best friend, Laminitis is a disease that affects the feet of hooved animals. It is characterized by inflammation of the digital laminae of the hoof. Severe cases with outwardly visible clinical signs are known by the term founder.

Greed or over feeding Theory states: if a horse is given excess grass it may be unable to digest all, causing fermentation in the hind gut and killing beneficial bacteria. This can result in body-wide inflammation, particularly in the laminae of the feet, where swelling tissues have no place to expand without causing injury to other structures.
